Driver in death crash over limit

A DRIVER had nearly three times the drink limit when he died in a horror crash.

Scott Crick's car hit trees more than 6ft above the ground after it left the road on the way home after a night out.

Mr Crick, 25, of Barnstock Field, Steeple Bumpstead, was certified dead at the scene of the crash at Great Bardfield.

His friend Oli Burkett, 26, of Great Bardfield, suffered critical head injuries but is now said to be recovering well.

Essex coroner Caroline Beasley-Murray recorded a verdict of accidental death on Mr Crick, who has a three-year-old daughter with his partner Connie Wright, 24.

The inquest in Chelmsford heard that one of the front tyres on Mr Crick's Citroen Saxo was bald when the crash happened in wet conditions on Saturday, October 24, last year.

Pc Clive Fry, collision investigator, said the car had started to spin and went almost sideways across the verge of the road on a bend.

He said: "The verge was progressively higher and it acted as a launch ramp."

Car became airborne during crash at bend

The car had started to roll over and part of the bumper was left in small trees.

Pc Fry said: "That may have increased the rotation and roll. The car was completely airborne as it travelled across a clearing. While airborne, having started to overturn, the offside and roof collided with three established trees at a height of 2m."

The Citroen then dropped to the ground, leaving glass and fragments embedded in the trunks, he said.

The clearing was strewn with vehicle parts which also extended into the woods. The car's roof and offside were massively damaged.

Mr Crick, who died from multiple injuries, had 230mg of alcohol in 100ml of blood. The limit is 80mg.

The first person on the scene was Park Farm gamekeeper Michael McSharry. He heard a loud bang just after 5am and went to investigate and called the police.

Pc Fry said: "We have a situation where he has negotiated the right hand bend and it's something which has started to happen, it's a gradual process, but he's tried to correct it and corrected it too much."

School assembly has a cutting edge

A TEENAGE student had her long blonde hair cut off during a school assembly to raise money to aid cancer patients.

Hannah Beswick, 17, a student at Haverhill's Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College was also helping the Little Princess Trust which makes wigs for children who lose their hair because of cancer treatments.

She inspired a cancer awareness charity week at her school and two others - Castle Hill Middle and Place Farm Primary - that make up the Castle Partnership of schools.

More than £2,000 was raised for Cancer Research UK with an additional amount raised for the Little Princess Trust.

Hannah, a Year 13 student, said: "I wanted to raise money and awareness about the disease across students of all ages and thought that having my long hair cut off would be a very good way to draw attention to this cause."

Charity events were held at all three schools including a name the duck competition, a cake sale and a wear pink and blue day.

Vanessa Blackwell, deputy principal at Castle Manor, helped students to organise the charity week across all three schools.

She said: "It has been fantastic to see children and young people between the ages of 3 and 19 get involved in charity fundraising. It has shown that by working together across the schools we can make a real difference in the community."

Police alert as clocks go back

POLICE are advising residents to take extra security measures as the clocks go back this weekend.

The Suffolk force will be carrying out covert and overt operations throughout the county to prevent burglaries and to also educate residents on the best ways to minimise their chances of becoming a victim.

Safer Neighbourhood Teams will be looking through the eyes of thieves and burglars for vulnerable persons, property and premises. Advice will then be given to residents that have not secured their property properly.

Prolific offenders in both areas are also being regularly visited to ensure they are not committing further crime, and to arrest anyone caught breaking the law.

Det Supt Phil Aves said: "One of the main problems is that many people are not locking their doors fully. Some burglars are well versed in opening front doors that are not properly locked, especially uPVC doors. They are particularly attracted to properties with nice cars parked outside, or on the driveway."

Police are also advising residents to leave their lights on a timer switch, so it appears someone is home as dark falls. Security-marking property with a UV pen, and displaying stickers saying all property is security marked, is also advised by police to make property unattractive to a burglar.

En route: the intrepid band from The Cock Inn, Thurlow, on their walk. CP

Pub to pub walk

PUB regulars and friends expect to raise £1,300 for the Teenage Cancer Trust by completing a 10-mile sponsored walk.

Janie Reardon-Smith, landlady of the Cock Inn, Thurlow, and nine other people took part in the walk from Newmarket to the pub on Sunday.

They chose the Teenage Cancer Trust in memory of Maggie Vale, who died from cancer two years ago aged 14.

Her dad, John, is a customer at the pub.

Mrs Reardon-Smith said: "Months ago we said we were going to do the walk, but never got it organised. My husband did a golf day in aid of the trust and we thought it was a good charity to support.

"We set off from Wetherspoon's in Newmarket at 10.45am and got back here by 3.30pm - and that included stopping at two pubs on the way."

Shelters going: work gets under way on the controversial shelters and Haverhill bus station.

Work starts on bus shelters in £60,000 project

LONG-AWAITED work to remove troublesome shelters from a town's bus station got under way this week.

The shelters at Haverhill bus station are being removed after 2,200 people signed a petition.

Passengers complained that the shelters, installed as part of a £300,000 revamp of the station last year, had exits that were too narrow for buggies and wheelchairs and were too close to the kerb to allow room for passengers getting off the buses.

It is costing around £60,000 to replace the shelters with more suitable ones.

The bus station was a joint scheme involving St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Suffolk County Council.

The county's transport portfolio holder, Cllr Guy McGregor, visited the station earlier this year to see the problem for himself before the county council agreed to replace the offending shelters.

Factory retail plan rejected

PLANS for a multi-million pound out-of-town redevelopment of a former factory site have been blocked because of concerns that it could hit town centre trade.

Councillors voted to reject HPG Developments' proposals for the former Project Office Furniture site in Haverhill when they met last Thursday.

The Cambridge-based company already has DIY chain Wickes lined up to open a store on the site at Hamlet Green.

The scheme includes four retail units, a builders' merchants, a drive-through fast food outlet, nine warehouses and 11 business start-up units.

HPG has said the £12 million scheme could provide up to 260 new jobs. The company has also offered £250,000 towards town centre improvements.

But St Edmundsbury Borough Council planners said in a report to a special meeting of its development control committee, that the positive aspects of the scheme do not outweigh the "adverse impact" it will have on the town centre.

Opposed: Cllr Anne Gower said the drive-through restaurant would increase anti-social behaviour.

The planners were also concerned about smells from the neighbouring sewage works and Anglian Water lodged an objection to the scheme.

Their report said: "The retail advisors for both the applicants and the council consider that Haverhill town centre is fragile and under-performing and this has been at the forefront of (council) officer concerns about these retail units being built on the out-of-centre site."

Local businessman Mark Chapman told the committee: "Anything that erodes business from Haverhill High Street will be a very bad thing."

Cllr Anne Gower said although the site was a "blot on the landscape", she could not support some aspects of the plan such as the retail sales and the drive-through restaurant which she said would increase anti-social behaviour.

Cllr Robert Clifton-Brown supported the scheme and said: "We have 260 jobs at stake here."

But he was the only one to vote against refusal of planning permission.

Afterward Robert Shrimplin, who represented the agents for the scheme, said: "We're disappointed because the scheme has a number of benefits.

"We will be considering our position."

Recycling bid launched to raise funds

A NEW recycling scheme has been launched to help an organisation which supports voluntary groups.

Haverhill Association of Voluntary Organisations is hoping that a scheme to recycle mobile phones, CDs, DVDs and computer games will help reduce a shortfall in its budget.

Michael Simpkin, who works voluntarily for HAVO, said: "We hope this will help us continue our services to the voluntary sector."

The scheme was given an early boost with donation of more than 40 computer games and DVDs by the town's Woolpack pub.

The scheme has been sponsored by four local businesses: Flip Flop Marketing, Design Office, Printwise and Machine Part Engineering.

Boxes to collect the items for recycling have so far been placed in six businesses in the town centre. They are Just Cutz hairdressers, Queen Street Computers, M J Pipe, Goldstar kitchens and bathrooms, Suffolk Insurance and Preview Lettings.

Items for recycling can also be taken to a recycling box at HAVO's offices in the borough offices in the town.

TOUCHING letters written by soldiers in the First World War are being published in a new book which is being produced to coincide with the Haverhill Remembrance Festival.

The festival, in which the 144 people whose names are recorded will be commemorated, gets under way tomorrow and continues on Saturday.

At the same time the latest book by Roy Brazier, local author and historian, has just been published by The Haverhill and District Local History Group.

The book includes photographs and other illustrations as well as giving a personal insight into the feelings of the troops who were fighting what was called "the war to end all wars".

Letters from the Front - Haverhill 1914-19 will be available, price £10, during the festival.

The September issue of the Haverhill Historian, also available at both the festival and in the history centre, includes articles which complement the issues covered by the book.

The history society asked for families of those on the memorial to come forward to give more details about them.

Some of the memories will be available for reading during the festival which is being held in the town's arts centre.

The event, organised by Suffolk Family History Society (Haverhill Group) and Haverhill & District Local History Group, will feature a variety of displays all on a broad theme of remembrance.

All the names on the memorial will also be read out.

Entrance is free but donations will go to the Royal British Legion Poppy Appeal. For details call (01440) 714140 or visit www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

The Remembrance Festival, which coincides with the 90th anniversary of the unveiling of the Haverhill War Memorial, will host a variety of displays and short performances from local groups and schools such as Haverhill Art Group, flower displays from the Haverhill and District Flower Club and St Mary's Church and Haverhill Girl Guides and Brownies. Kedington Garden Society will present Dig for Victory and the Gurtreen's Factory will display memorabilia from their days of supplying soldiers' uniforms.

Suffolk Record Office is encouraging people to take along their old photos and war documents and the Haverhill Local History Group will launch their new book Letters from the Front and also present the town mayor, Elaine McManus, with a copy of their research, Roll of Honour, which details the personal history and how and when those named on the war memorial died.

Offering an in sight into how people lived during the wars there will be a Home Front themed exhibition with tasters of the recipes created by resourceful housewives from rationed goods and volunteers of the Suffolk Branch of the Western Front Association will be in various WW1 characters

Suffolk Regiment Museum will be there to show off artefacts and exhibits in their Hands On collection and the Pearly King and Queen of Peckham will be mingling with the visitors.

One of the most important aspects of the festival is that every half hour six names will be read out from war memorial which will be followed by a short performance by such groups as Castle Manor and Samuel Ward Upper Schools and the Haverhill U3A folk group.

Couple benefit from pilot cash scheme

TENANTS in retirement housing have been given cash towards new kitchens and bathrooms in a pilot scheme.

The Copayment scheme has been launched by Hanover housing and among the first to benefit are tenants at Pentlow Hawke Close in Haverhill.

The housing association will make a contribution when kitchens and bathrooms are due for replacements in the next 15 years with more cash being given according to the age of the rooms.

Among those to have been

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

helped by the scheme are retired bank worker Malcolm Bignell and his wife Barbara.

Mr Bignell said: "Our old house was getting too much for us. When we saw our new flat we knew it was where we wanted to spend the remainder of our days.

"During the viewing our estate manager pointed out an added bonus, because the kitchen was due to be replaced in 2012 and the bathroom in 2024 we qualified for a Copayment.

"The total cost of replacing our kitchen and bathroom was £11,000.

"Hanover contributed 40 per cent towards the total cost for the bathroom and 80 per cent towards the kitchen which meant Hanover contributed £6,800 in total.

"I'm so glad we contacted Hanover.

"We are delighted with our new kitchen and bathroom and look forward to entertaining our friends and family for many years to come."

The work was carried out by SOS Property Maintenance, based in Cambridge and Peterborough.

Claire Anderson, director of Hanover housing, said: "Hanover is committed to providing homes that older people want to live in.

"Whilst we always maintain properties to a high standard, we are also pleased to offer residents the choice to purchase their own bathroom or kitchen with help from Hanover.

"The pilot scheme has been rolled out on 38 estates with uptake from 99 residents.

"The scheme is due to be reviewed later this year and will hopefully be launched early next year."

The motorcycle was later found at the town's leisure centre.

Health centre staff are in the pink

STAFF at a Haverhill health centre are supporting Wear it Pink Day to raise awareness of breast cancer.

The Crown Health Centre in Withersfield Road is getting involved in the event by asking staff to don pink tomorrow and again a week later.

Naomi Cooper, practice manager, said: "We encourage our patients to be aware of all health issues that could affect them and their families.

"Wear It Pink Day is a fantastic opportunity to raise awareness of breast cancer not only with patients but with staff. At the same time we get to dress up and have some fun."

Proceeds will go to the Breast Cancer campaign.

Some 'more in it together than others'

Sir, I am pleased that George Osborne feels that "we are all in this together" and welcome the tightening up on benefit fraud. However it seems that some people are "in it together" more than others. Benefit fraud is a tiny percentage compared to tax evasion (legal) and tax fraud. The Government has promised to tighten up on that too and pointed out the rich are paying more (in real terms) than the poor. This is as it should be – the rich can afford to pay much more (incidentally this was due to a reform brought in by the last Government, not the current one). One is tempted to wonder if tax evasion/fraud is lower profile and taking longer to happen because the Chancellor and others in Government are immensely wealthy. Perhaps other readers would like to write to their MP too? He can be contacted at matthew@westsuffolkconservatives.com or Matthew Hancock, MP, House of Commons, London, SW1A 0AA

Long may card sales continue

Sir, After their very successful yard sale last month, as Funeral Service Arranger at the Co-operative Funeralcare in the High Street, Haverhill, I had begun selling a selection of handmade birthday cards, Christmas cards and gift boxes.

Each card and box is unique with all proceeds going to St Nicholas Hospice. My cards were very well received at our yard sale and I was very pleased as I had only made them for private use in the past. I decided why not go the next step and offer them to the public all year round with the proceeds going to a worthy cause. The hospice has been a godsend to so many over the years and they deserve to get something back. Gift boxes are selling at 70p each with small cards selling at 30p and larger ones at 60p. The public have been a great support to us over the past 10 years and it is greatly appreciated by all

Inspectors rate school outstanding

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A SCHOOL which has already been rated as one of the top 200 in the country has been given top marks in its latest inspection.

Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College in Haverhill has scored outstanding ratings in 11 categories by inspectors from Ofsted – the Office for Standards in Education.

The details were given to governors and staff earlier this month although the full report has yet to be published.

Head: Madeleine Vigar

Alan Pearson, who chairs the governors at Castle Manor, said: "In the last six years, I have watched as the college has transformed itself to the place of excellence it is today."

He said it was an emotional moment to hear how the college had been transformed in such a spectacular way.

At the time of the college's last inspection three years ago, the college was given good and satisfactory ratings.

Now it has been given outstanding marks for overall effectiveness, capacity for sustained improvement, behaviour, leadership and management, value for money and other aspects of the school.

Mr Pearson said: "We now have two outstanding secondary schools in Haverhill – only 10 per cent of schools nationally reach this standard. The community should be proud of their achievements.

"My colleagues and I offer our heartfelt congratulations to the students who have achieved so much, to Madeleine Vigar (the head) and her staff who have helped them to do so and to the parents and carers who have supported the college through thick and thin."

The college, which has more than 550 students, is set to become a new all-through academy. Earlier this year it was announced that the change was being fast-tracked.

Police advice for trick or treaters this Hallowe'en

TRICK or treaters in Haverhill are being warned to be on their best behaviour this Hallowe'en.

Police have been visiting schools to tell children how to behave responsibly, and not plague residents by throwing eggs and flour.

Posters asking youngsters not to visit have also been circulated to residents who do not wish to be disturbed.

Chief Inspector Kerry Pauling

said: "Extra patrols will be in place throughout the county with the primary aim being to make sure that the evening is peaceful and the number of disturbances are kept to a minimum."

Winners collect prizes

THE winner of a World Mental Health Day art and photo contest has been offered some time to display her work in The Gallery, Haverhill.

Amy Hewstone also took the top prize of vouchers worth £60 in the contest held in the town's library.

Janis Layzell was second and received vouchers of £40. Third place was taken by Kirsty Dunkley with £20 vouchers.

The judges included photographer David Doughty from The Gallery.

The art/photo competition was organised by the VASP group which is the Mental Health Voluntary and Statutory Partnership which organises events every year to promote mental health topics. The VASP team were available to answer questions in the library foyer and the art display attracted more than 100 visitors.

Musicians from the local group MINDSET provided songs and acoustic accompaniment as shoppers were given health promotional material.

For any further information on World Mental Health Day contact Elaine Hewes at the Haverhill Volunteer Centre on (01440) 708444 or the Community Mental Health Team.

Go-ahead for free school

ONE of the first academies under the Government's free schools' policy is due to open on the site of a former middle school in September next year.

The Stour Valley Community School, due to open on the Clare Middle School site, has had funding agreed by the government and has started recruiting staff.

It is currently advertising for a head teacher at a salary of between £65,000 and £80,000.

The new school, for pupils between the ages of 11 and 16, will be run by the Stour Valley Educational Trust.

Michael Gove, Secretary of State for Education, has agreed that the project can progress to the final stage of the free schools approval process.

A first open evening for parents and supporters attracted around 300 people when more details of the project were revealed.

The school is one of the first 16 in the country to go through the Government's application process.

Keith Haisman, chairman of Stour Valley Educational Trust, said Richard Priestley, who until recently was head of Newport Free Grammar School, near Saffron Walden, was helping with recruitment.

Mr Haisman said they would provide evidence that the new school could expect to achieve much higher standards in line with comparable schools in Cambridgeshire and elsewhere.

One parent said: "It is incredible that having spent so long believing that there would be no secondary education provision in our community, it is now not only becoming a reality - but exactly what parents and children across our community aspire to."

Clare Middle School is closing as part of Suffolk County Council's switch to two-tier education.

Couple hit out over insurance

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A COUPLE are claiming they were mis-sold home insurance after they were told the company would not pay out following a burglary at their home.

Christine Settle, 21, and Lewis Rice, 26, of Kingfisher Close, Haverhill, were sold a home contents policy when they visited the town's Lloyds TSB branch earlier this year.

But they were shocked when they tried to claim and were told they were not covered because they had a flatmate living with them.

Miss Settle said: "We only went into the bank to move some money around and ended up getting the insurance which costs us £10.99 a month."

The couple were on holiday and their flatmate Jack Russo, 21, was at work when the flat was burgled on Sunday, October 17.

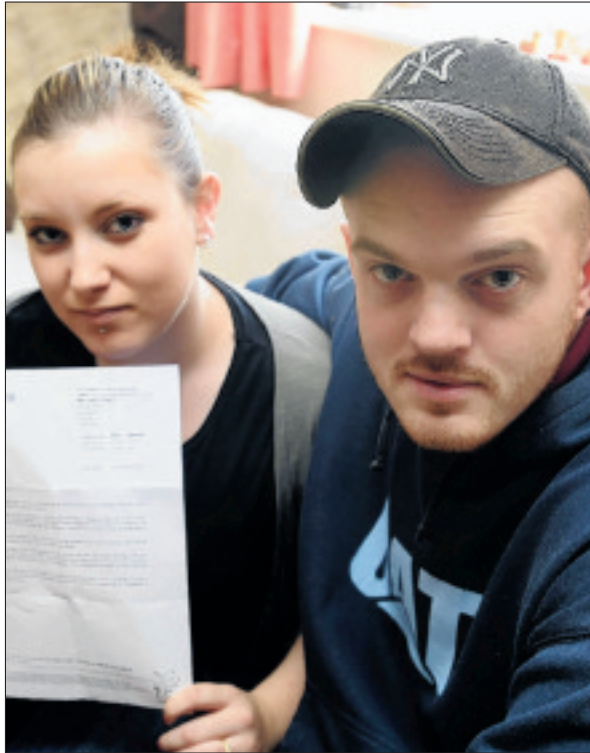

They found DVDs scattered around and a PlayStation3 with 13 games as well as a Wii Fit and associated equipment had been stolen.

Miss Settle said: "They didn't touch my jewellery box. They just made a mess, but nothing was broken or damaged."

She said the stolen property was worth around £1,200.

After they submitted a claim, they called the insurers to find out how it was progressing but they were told they would not be getting a payment.

Miss Settle said she complained to the bank and was told the reason was because they had someone else living in the flat.

But she said bank staff were aware that Mr Russo was sharing the flat.

She said: "Why sell someone something that isn't going to cover them?"

A spokesman for Lloyds TSB said: "We are currently investigating the circumstances surrounding this matter."

£290k won on lottery

A LOTTERY prize of nearly £300,000 has been claimed by a winner living in St Edmundsbury – the area which includes Haverhill. The prize of £292,422 had been unclaimed from the September 15 Lotto draw. But now the winner has come forward.

Camelot UK Lotteries Limited, operator of The National Lottery, has confirmed that the winner lives in the borough of St Edmundsbury. But the company said it could not give any further details about the winner unless they agreed to publicity.

A National Lottery spokesperson said: "We're delighted that the winner of this amazing prize has now come forward. It would have been awful if the ticket-holder had missed out on this substantial and life-enhancing amount of money. We would like to remind all National Lottery players to check their tickets every time they play."

Games and TV in £1,900 burglary

COMPUTER games systems together with a television and speakers, were among property worth around £1,900 stolen in a house burglary.

Raiders got into the house in Colbeck Road, Haverhill, between 9.45pm on Tuesday, October 19 and 6.30am the following day.

They stole a rug, together with clothing, two games consoles and games, a laptop computer, the television and speakers.

Region third in profits index

A NEW study says the East of England has the third highest proportion of profitable businesses in the country.

The first Barclays Business Regional Impact Index ranks each region against 13 key indicators including profit, outlook on growth and investment in training.

The index shows the regions with the highest proportion of profitable businesses in the last 12 months.

Yorkshire and Humberside ranked highest, followed by the North East and then the East of England.

Visitors at pre-school are really going wild

PRE-SCHOOL youngsters were fascinated when a wildlife park brought some of the animals to meet them.

Shepreth Wildlife Park introduced some of its smaller animals to under 5s at Haverhill's Stepping Stones Pre-School.

The youngsters, whose pre-school is in the grounds of the town's Coupsals Primary School, were able to touch skunks, a snake and giant snails.

The park, located between Cambridge and Royston, is also home to big cats, including Bengal tigers and mountain lions, as well as lemurs, rodents and snakes.

Elaine McManus, who runs Stepping Stones, said: "It was fantastic. The children were unexpectedly brilliant. Some were able to hold the animals if they wanted, but others could just stroke them."

There were stick insects, a lizard and mice as well as the other creatures.

A total of 37 children between the ages of two and four took part in the fun session before the half-term break.

Help track ancient and rare sweet chestnuts

A CHARITY is appealing to the public to track down sweet chestnut trees.

The tree is poorly represented on the UK's only living database of the country's oldest trees, according to the Woodland Trust's Ancient Tree Hunt.

The charity wants to locate the trees so it can lobby for greater protection and monitor threats.

Edward Parker, the Ancient Tree Hunt project manager at the trust, said: "We know there will be many more out there, so we are urging people to help us gain more data."

People are warned to be careful not to confuse the nuts with conkers, which are inedible.

Sweet chestnuts are in a hairy-looking pod.

Conkers have a thick smooth shell with spikes that resemble a sea mine.

To find out how to spot an ancient tree and to register it on the website, visit www.ancientreehunt.org.uk

Assistant chief for police appointed

A NEW Assistant Chief Constable was previously a police commander for the area including Haverhill, Newmarket and Mildenhall.

Paul Marshall, 46, is currently serving as Temporary Assistant Chief Constable of Suffolk, but his appointment to the post on a permanent basis has just been approved.

His previous appointments have included being sector commander at Mildenhall as an inspector, Staff Officer to the Chief Constable, Western Area Crime Manager, heading the area CID team and director of intelligence.

In his current role as Temporary Assistant Chief Constable, Mr Marshall is responsible for finance, facilities management, procurement, ICT, information compliance and security and business support.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

He said: "Having served with the Suffolk Constabulary for the last 28 years, I am extremely proud to have been offered this position.

"I look forward to continuing to work with the public and partners in delivering an excellent policing service in what will clearly be difficult times."

Colin Spence, chairman of Suffolk Police Authority, said: "We are operating in exceptional times and we need a strong chief officer team to lead the constabulary through these unprecedented challenges. The Police Authority is confident that the appointment of Paul will be an excellent addition to our existing chief officer team and that he will provide valuable support to the authority and the Chief Constable during the challenges that lie ahead."

Extremely proud: Paul Marshall, the new Assistant Chief Constable.

Walkers follow route of old railway lines

WALKERS from the Haverhill Healthy Walking Group (HHWG) enjoyed tracing the route of the disused railway lines at the east end of the town.

A member of the local History Society, Gwyn Cross, accompanied the group and gave insights into the existence of two separate lines coming to the town in the past, linked eventually by the line across the viaduct at Sturmer Arches.

The old Wisdom toothbrush factory was passed on the way to the Old Independent Church.

HHWG is a walking group organised for those who need to get out and walk, which can be for many reasons – returning to fitness after surgery, making new friends, or just the reassurance of walking not too far in the company of trained walk leaders.

The group has its next walk on Thursday, November 4, starting at 10am from the Kedington Community Centre.

Marathon runner used to wear size 22 clothes

OVERWEIGHT and unhappy, Maija Bissett barely left the house. Hiding her size 22 frame behind closed doors – and under layers of baggy men's clothes – she hated going out.

"I felt fat and ashamed of it," admits the St Neots mum-of-two. "I just didn't socialise, didn't go out with my friends... I'd lost all my self-confidence. Looking back, I wasn't like me at all: I've always been really out-going."

"But then I started running. And I was doing it for myself, not for anyone else. All of a sudden I wasn't only a wife and a mum – I was me again."

Since taking up running in 2007, Maija's life has changed beyond recognition. Having shed an incredible five dress sizes, she's now a trim size 12. She's got a new job and a packed social calendar. And, above all, she's happy.

"If I do ever feel down or angry about something I go out for a run," she smiles. "It's a lot cheaper than therapy – and it really works!"

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

When her adored older brother died suddenly, Maija says she was forced to reassess her own life – and make some changes. As a result, she decided to pull on her running shoes; the 33-year-old has clearly never looked back.

This year alone, Maija, who works for the local council, has entered a whole string of races – including the Great North and South Runs – and has already clocked up more than 250km in aid of The Alzheimer's Society. It's a cause close to her heart: her beloved godfather, who gave her away on her wedding day, died just a few days ago after battling Alzheimer's disease.

"He was like a second dad to me but, towards the end, he barely remembered who I was," adds Maija. "It's an awful illness – and such an important cause."

Maija's battle with the bulge began when, in her late teens, she left her native Finland for the UK. She came to Britain to do a degree at Newcastle University and, while a student, piled on the pounds.

"Like most students I liked a drink of beer," she laughs. "But once I started working I joined a gym and my weight was manageable; I was about size 16."

Then, in 2003, Maija fell pregnant with her first child, Grace, now 7. "From the moment I found out I was pregnant I was sick all the time. It was not good. The only things I could keep down were flat Coke and Jaffa Cakes... I ended up in hospital on a drip for a week."

Maija actually lost weight during the pregnancy. But, as soon as little Grace arrived, the pounds started to pile back on: by 2005, Maija's dress size had shot up to a 20/22.

"I don't actually know how much I weighed, because I didn't weigh myself," says Maija, who admits she was comfortable eating and doing almost no exercise.

"I lived in baggy XXL clothes to cover myself up. I didn't even like to look in the mirror. And I hated having my picture taken: there are loads of pictures of my husband Nic with the kids and almost none of me."

While pregnant with her son, George, now 4, Maija got the devastating news that her older brother had died suddenly, aged only 38.

"My mum left an answer machine message for my husband but I picked it up," recounts Maija. "I can still remember every single word of what she said. It was the worst feeling I've ever had."

Born with a hole in his heart, Maija's brother had battled ill-health for most of his life. But, thanks to a pacemaker, he'd just begun to live life to the full: he had his own business, a new girlfriend, was planning to buy his own home...

Then, after work one night, he got out of the car, slipped over on the driveway and banged his head; within a matter of days, he was in intensive care fighting for his life.

"He had a bleed in his brain but it was his heart in the end: it was too worn out to cope," explains Maija.

"Our dad had died of a heart attack several years before, when I was 22, and we'd talked a lot about funerals and what we did and didn't like. When my brother died I went into organisation mode: I was determined that his funeral would be perfect."

In the wake of the funeral, Maija admits falling into a real low. "I was offered bereavement counselling but, at the end of the first session, when I'd spent the whole time talking about my brother, the counsellor said 'I'm sorry your husband died'; I was so angry I refused to do it again."

"There were times, after George was born, when I handed the baby to my husband and said 'I can't deal with this'. But I got through it – and I think running really helped."

Maija says losing her brother at such a young age prompted her to make some changes in her own life. A keen runner in her schooldays, she decided it was time to hit the road again; when she discovered that the 2007 Great North Run fell on what would have been her brother's 40th birthday, it seemed to be a sign.

"To start with I only went out early in the morning, when I thought nobody would see me. And it wasn't easy: to start with I felt like I was dying; at times I felt physically sick. But Rome wasn't built in a day, and neither was the Great Wall of China – you have to do it little by little."

"Even buying running clothes was difficult: I remember looking at all these little lycra things and thinking 'No way!' But over time I started to enjoy the running more and more: it's probably the endorphins talking, but it really does make me feel happy."

Completely focused on training, Maija says to begin with she hardly noticed she was losing weight. "People kept telling me I was losing weight and my jeans were feeling looser," she remembers. "And then I found myself needing to buy size 18 clothes, something which hadn't happened in a long time."

It took almost three and a half hours, but Maija made it round the Great North Run course in memory of her brother. It was an emotional moment – and she says the sense of achievement was immense.

"I'd definitely caught the running bug," adds Maija, who has since dropped a further three dress sizes. "Nowadays I run whenever I can, usually three times a week. It's part of my life now."

Maija says running not only keeps her fit, healthy and slim, it's given her back her self-confidence.

"I'm so much more confident now: I have to meet new people almost every day for work and I don't think twice about it," she adds. "I'm back to the out-going, chatty me – and it's great."

Pie and mash shop in anniversary delight

HAVE you ever struggled to find a truly traditional pie and mash? Have your secret jellied eel needs gone unmet? For a taste of the big city in a local setting, visit Brownie's Pie and Mash shop in Haverhill.

The London-themed pie emporium celebrates its anniversary this October 31, a decade after husband and wife Mick and Julie Brown set it up to bring a taste of the city to their town, supported by their hard working staff, especially Theresa Hill, who has worked for them since day one.

The shop specialises in minced beef pie, mash and liquor, accompanied with creamy mash, although it also offers steak and kidney pies, burgers, chips, baguettes, sandwiches, all day breakfasts and, for the true cockney, jellied and stewed eels, all of which are available to eat in or take-away.

Brownie's is also known for its décor, which is a homage to London life, with photos of Chas and Dave, old London docks, the Queen's Coronation and photographs of traditional pie shops.

Julie Brown says: "We have regular customers from as far as Cambridge, Sawston, Newmarket and Cherry Hinton who make a point of coming in at least once a month to get their pie fix. We're an individual shop, and that's what has kept us going. We're a one-off."

As for the anniversary itself, Julie adds: "It would have been work as normal, although as luck would have it, it falls on a Sunday so we'll have a well-deserved day off."

Brownie's Pie and Mash shop is open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday 9-5, Wednesday 9-2, Friday 8-5 and Saturday 8-4.

Wide load: one of the dinosaurs on the back of a lorry going to the zoo.

CP

Dinosaurs are new exhibits at zoo

DINOSAURS may be creatures of the past, but they are coming back to life at Linton Zoo.

Many commuters stared in disbelief as trucks carrying three 'life-size' fibreglass dinosaurs journeyed along the road to the zoo last week.

Victor the velociraptor, Alfie the allosaurus and Emily the brontosaurus journeyed from Devon to join the education team at Linton Zoo to help visitors focus on the concept of extinction.

Schoolchildren recently had the chance to experience a fossil hadrosaur egg at the Fur, Feathers, Scales and Dinosaurs talk and it is hoped the new additions will help visitors have a better understanding of creatures threatened with extinction.

A handful of more dinosaurs, including a T-Rex, stegosaurus, triceratops and hadrosaur are set to join those already at the site in the coming months, with plans to house the extinct species in the giant tortoise enclosure to emphasise how close to extinction tortoises have become.

Villagers rally to help family

A FAMILY who "lost everything" in a house fire has praised villagers and businesses for their "incredible" help.

Three generations of the Hemming family were made homeless when their home in High Street, Castle Camps, burnt down on September 8.

But the family, which includes Roy Hemming, 67, his daughter Susan Hamlett, 41, and her children, 11-year-old Oliver and Lily, six, have been supported by families from Castle Camps, surrounding villages and Haverhill.

Castle Camps Primary School raised £376 by holding a non-uniform day for the family, who are now living in Parsonage Way, Linton.

The family have also been given clothes, shoes, school uniforms and offers of places to stay.

Mr Hemming, who has lived in Castle Camps since 1977, said they had received a tremendous response from traders in Haverhill.

Devastating: fire crews tackling the blaze at Mr Hemming's home last month.

He added that Haverhill got a lot of bad press, but also did a lot of good things too.

"Lily had her school uniform on and Oli had his gymnastics gear on," said Mr Hemming, "but they had absolutely nothing else, and they were given things you don't think about like underclothes, plimsolls – people just made sure they had clothes on their back.

"I've had no particular expectations from the village, other than it has always been friendly and helpful, but the actual response we had was incredible."

Mr Hemming added that nearly all the family's possessions were destroyed in the blaze, which was extinguished by firefighters.

He said: "All the family pictures and films, the upstairs, my guns, everything has gone as the house was totalled."

"I've spent the last two weeks just sifting through the ashes trying to find things, though most of what I've found I've had to throw in the skip."

"The children responded remarkably well to it all, though each week that goes past Lily remembers something else that she has lost, be it her favourite teddies, dollies or Tinkerbell dress."

THE CASE FOR A CAMBRIDGE TO HAVERHILL RAILWAY

The Cambridge-Sudbury Rail Renewal Association (CSRRA) believes there is a case for the renewal of the rail-link for the following reasons:

- HAVERHILL'S population has grown from 8,500 before closure of the rail-link in 1967 to 23,400 now.
- Existing travel by road (A1307) is congested at peak times with slow bus travel, and is a cause of pollution and accidents.
- The transport needs of people – for commuting, education, leisure, holidays & shopping, and for industrial freight are increasing.
- A professional pre-feasibility study (1999) showed that a railway could be reinstated, albeit with some diversions from the pre-1967 route.
- A Petition in 2000-02 achieved 11,400 signatures in favour of the renewal of the rail-link.
- A Market Research feasibility study (2004), arranged by CSRRA, showed that over 73% of people surveyed would use a Cambridge to Haverhill railway - with an early morning to late night time-table.
- Railways in Great Britain are now busier than at any time in 60 years.
- The Association of Train Operating Companies believes there is a case for investigation of the Haverhill to Cambridge rail renewal.

Next meeting 25th November at 7.30pm

Dream on for an ETO double bill

JENNIFER SHELTON previews a world premiere from the English Touring Opera

INSPIRED by a dream, Promised End is a new opera by leading British composer Alexander Goehr, based on fragments of Shakespeare's great tragedy King Lear.

The piece has been influenced by a range of world theatre and dance.

In these 24 short scenes, the original story is distilled and re-arranged to present an unexpected, unique interpretation of the play.

Goehr selected the English Touring Opera (ETO) to produce the world premiere – a company he has come to know through their performances at the Arts Theatre.

This world premiere production is directed by James Conway with designs by Adam Wiltshire and Guy Hoare.

Ryan Wigglesworth conducts the award-winning, contemporary ensemble: Aurora Orchestra. The strong cast includes Roderick Earle as the besieged King, and Nigel Robson as his blinded vassal, Gloucester.

It shows on Wednesday, November 3 and Saturday November 6 at 7.30pm.

Showing on Thursday November

4 and Friday November 5, The Duenna completes this double-bill.

Composed by Thomas Linley and written by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, The Duenna was the jewel of Georgian England.

Now, ETO brings the piece triumphantly back to the stage full of sparkling wit and musical charm.

Like ETO's King Lear adaptation, The Duenna is also concerned with fathers who are deceived in their daughters, but in this case our sympathies are all with the latter, who are seeking to marry men of their own choice against their parents' wills.

Tuneful, sabre-tongued, light-hearted and irreverent, ETO has produced an exuberant restoration comedy reminding us why it was so popular many years ago.

■ Promised End and The Duenna, English Touring Opera, Cambridge Arts Theatre, November 3 - 6, both at 7.30pm. Tickets start at £15. Contact (01223) 503333 or visit www.cambridgeartstheatre.com

Family saga played out in classic style

WITNESS the sullen, brewing tensions of Tennessee Williams' family drama, Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, in a local production.

Some of Cambridge's finest rising stars are taking to the stage this week to present a fresh reworking of this classic play, later made into a film starring Paul Newman and Elizabeth Taylor.

In deepest Mississippi, it's Big Daddy Pollitt's 65th birthday and his family have flocked to his 40,000-acre plantation to celebrate. But they know something he doesn't. As festivities commence, secrets are concealed and power struggles are played-out on the quiet.

Among the characters who have gathered for the party are Brick and Maggie, whose marriage is in turmoil, and Brick's brother Gooper, whose attempts to gain control of the family fortune further infuriate Maggie.

Maggie, though witty and beautiful, has escaped a childhood of desperate poverty to marry into the wealthy Pollitt family, but finds herself unfulfilled. Brick's indifference and his near-continuous drinking dates back to the recent suicide of his friend Skipper.

Through the evening, Brick, Big Daddy and Maggie—and indeed the entire family—must face down the issues which they have bottled up inside. Thinking himself blessed to be alive, Big Daddy attempts a reconciliation with the alcoholic Brick, reflecting on his life. Both Big Daddy and Maggie separately confront Brick about the true nature of his relationship with his pro football buddy Skipper, which appears to be the source of Brick's sorrow and the cause of his alcoholism.

During a heated and lengthy exchange alone, Brick explains to Big Daddy how Maggie, convinced that Brick and Skipper were engaged in a homosexual relationship, slept with Skipper out of revenge, causing Skipper to question himself and his friendship with Brick, ultimately leading to his suicide.

A searing examination of sex, lies and a family on the brink of collapse, Cat on a Hot Tin Roof won the Pulitzer Prize for Drama in 1955 and is said to be one of the works Williams' was most proud of.

■ Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, ADC Theatre, until Saturday, at 7.45pm. Tickets are £10 (£8 concessions). Contact (01223) 300085 / www.adctheatre.com

FAMILY SAGA: Cat On A Hot Tin Roof is at the ADC Theatre this week.

Stand up with Jarred

JARRED Christmas Stands Up is a collection of charming and honest tales from a comedian who has enjoyed a successful year.

He has had a fantastic year building on his reputation in the comedy world with sell out solo shows, a starring role in a BBC2 sitcom, appearing on Mock the Week, 8 Out of 10 Cats, Big Brother's Big Mouth, winning a Chortle award and performing at the gala show for the prestigious Montreal Just for Laughs festival.

This is a comedian who the world can expect to see a lot more of in the future.

Catch up with him at The Junction in Cambridge on Wednesday at 8pm. Tickets are £12 from the box office on (01223) 511511, visit www.junction.co.uk

The big film

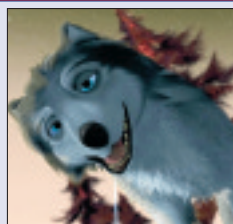

ALPHA AND OMEGA
certificate U 88m

DENNIS Hopper delivers his final performance as the voice of a wolf in Anthony Bell and Ben Gluck's computer-animated tale of love across the social divide. Sadly, Alpha And Omega is not a fitting tribute to his considerable talents.

Produced predominantly in India by Crest Animation, this road movie has a script which trades in lazy clichés and asks us to buy wholesale into a central romance that is destined but never deserved.

The lack of visual sophistication is glaringly evident from the opening sequence: aerial shots of Jasper National Park in Canada, which the lupine characters call home. Breathtaking mountains are rendered flat and lifeless, tree canopies seems immune to the elements and a giant waterfall is a single sheet of water.

The wolves are no better – the mane sticks in clumps to minimise the difficulty of animating each strand and there is a curious disconnect between the animals' paws and the ground.

Kate (Hayden Panettiere) is an alpha wolf who must marry another alpha to honour her father Winston (Danny Glover), the pack leader. In secret, he has promised Kate to Garth the son of Eastern pack leader Tony (Hopper), in the hope the marriage will unite the two tribes.

Kate's best friend Humphrey (Justin Long) secretly yearns for her but knows he can never declare his true feelings because he is an omega wolf and down the pecking order. His role is to play the fool and diffuse tensions with the help of fellow omegas Salty (Brian Donovan), Shakey (Kevin Sussman) and Mooch (Eric Price).

When Kate and Humphrey are tranquillised and relocated to Sawtooth National Forest in an effort to establish a new wolf population, the friends embark on an epic road trip to return home.

En route, they meet golf-crazy French-Canadian goose Marcel (Larry Miller) and his duck caddy, Paddy (Price again).

Meanwhile, back home, Kate's sister Lilly (Christina Ricci), a shy omega wolf, falls in love with Garth, potentially setting up a different wedding altogether.

Alpha And Omega is a mongrel next to pedigree animations like Toy Story 3 and Despicable Me. Directors Bell and Gluck steal a caribou stampede sequence from The Lion King and then recycle it a second time, presumably because they had no original ideas to pad the running time.

Turf is ready to roll into a lovely lawn

IF YOU want a beautiful new lawn but don't want to wait long to see it come to fruition, then turf's your answer.

It offers the nearest solution to an instant lawn, can be laid quickly and shouldn't need too much aftercare as long as the ground is moist and it rains within a couple of days of laying it.

Many people hire contractors to do the job for them but if you are going to lay it yourself, the secret is in the preparation you do to the ground beforehand.

First you will need to remove weeds, improve your soil by adding organic matter, address drainage issues and level off the ground on which you are laying the turf.

You will need to dig over the site for a new lawn, breaking up compacted soil below the surface to allow free drainage when the turf is laid. On heavy, clay soil, work some sharp grit into the soil to help drainage.

Rid the plot of stones by hand-picking them off before you firm the ground by shuffling over the area or laying a plank of wood down and walking along it,

by Hannah Stephenson

moving the plank of wood on to the next bit once you've completed one line. It's important the soil is firmed but not compacted.

It may take some time to level the area, but if you don't do this at the outset then the turf you lay may end up as a lawn with little hills in it which are difficult to mow and result in scalped areas mixed with patches of long grass.

Once the grass is established, it takes a lot of work to correct any remaining lumps and bumps, so take care with the preparation first time around.

Once you've firmed the area, rake it over, leaving the ground level with a surface like fine breadcrumbs, fill any holes and make sure the ground is flat.

Then keep off the area until you are ready to lay your turf.

A week or so before you lay the turf, add a general lawn fertiliser and rake it into the surface.

You'll need to water the ground gently if it doesn't rain.

Make sure the ground is ready when you order your turf, as you don't want it hanging around because it will soon dry up and deteriorate.

Turf arrives in Swiss-roll style lengths, which you then roll out on to your prepared area.

If you can't lay it immediately, open out the rolls and lay them flat to allow air and light to reach the grass.

To lay the turf, start from the furthest edge. If there's a straight edge to the lawn, lay a row of turves along that first.

Place planks over the turf you've just laid which you can walk on while laying the next row of turves.

The joints should be staggered in the same sort of pattern as a brick wall and the turves need to be butted tightly against one another without overlapping or stretching.

When the turves are laid, firm them down gently by laying a plank on top of them and tapping it with a rubber mallet or the back of a rake.

When you reach the edge of a flower bed or path, lay the turf over the edge and trim it with a stout pair of scissors or an old kitchen knife, following the curves.

In October and November, the ideal time for laying turf, there's usually enough rain to help the new lawn establish, but if not, water the turf thoroughly over the next few weeks – and keep off it until it has really taken root.

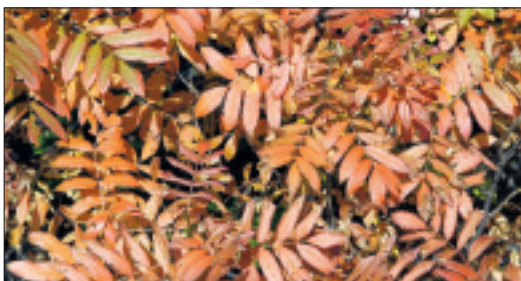

BEST OF THE BUNCH – Rhus (Sumach)

These small deciduous trees are grown primarily for their stunning autumn leaves which turn brilliant shades of red, orange and yellow at this time of year.

Female plants produce strange-looking, velvety, crimson fruits in late summer before the explosion of colour in the autumn. The most popular type is R. typhina, the stag's horn sumach, whose branches grow to 5m (15ft) or more if left unpruned, but be warned that it has a prolific suckering habit and tends to be invasive so is unsuitable for planting in the lawn.

Another type, R. typhina 'Dissecta', has deeply cut leaflets, giving it a lighter, prettier foliage effect. It will thrive in any reasonable garden soil, in a sunny spot. It should be pruned hard in February, cutting stems to around 30cm (1ft) above ground.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.

The new Sharan

Over-50s hit most by insurance hikes

... but all are stung to pay for young male drivers' mayhem

MOTORISTS aged over 50 have seen a huge hike in car insurance costs over the last 12 months, it was revealed this week.

Insurance premiums for this age group have soared 26 per cent in a year, a survey of more than 600,000 people by research firm Consumer Intelligence.com found.

The average cost of premiums for motorists aged more than 50 rose from £355.52 in June 2009 to £449.66 in June 2010.

The poll also revealed that there were big differences in the average premiums being quoted by insurers specialising in the 50-plus age group, with the highest quote of £563 being some 49 per cent more than the lowest quote of £378.

However, the survey indicated that motor insurers cannot rely on their 50-plus consumers remaining loyal to their brand because 81 per cent of this age group shopped around for quotes at renewal, and having done so, 50 per cent decided to switch to another insurer.

This shrewd behaviour has paid off because 87.5 per cent of switchers aged 50-plus claimed to be saving money on their new motor insurance, compared with 84.2 per cent of the market as a whole.

The 50-plus segment would appear to be less motivated by price than the market as a whole, with less than half (47 per cent) choosing their insurer because they were the cheapest. This compares with 56 per cent of the whole switching market.

Meanwhile the latest benchmark AA British Insurance Premium Index shows no respite from fast-rising premiums, as another record high is reached.

Over the past quarter, motorists absorbed an increase of 11.5 per cent according to the Shoparound index, which is an average of the cheapest three quotes for each 'customer' in the Index basket of 2,800 risks. But over the 12 months ending September 30 the Shoparound cost of an annual comprehensive car insurance policy had risen by 39.3 per cent to £792, the biggest annual jump recorded by the Index.

Young drivers are being hit with the biggest premium increases. Over the past 12 months the average cost of insurance has jumped by 51 per cent for those aged between 17 and 22; after shopping around for their cover, men of this age can now expect to pay an annual premium of around £2,500 and women £1,400.

■ Young driver specialist Marmalade warned this week that improving the safety of young drivers was the only way to reduce insurance premiums for everyone.

"There is a minority of young male drivers who are increasing the cost of insurance for all road users," said Nigel Lacy of Marmalade. "The only way insurance premiums can be reduced is if young people can be encouraged to drive more safely."

Adaptive Chassis is a first for latest MPV

THE all-new Sharan is now available to order from Volkswagen retailers, with prices starting from £22,980 for the entry-level S 1.4-litre TSI model and peaking at £31,680 for the 2.0 TDI 167bhp 6spd DSG SEL.

Not only is the new Sharan the most advanced people carrier Volkswagen has ever produced, with the latest comfort and safety technologies, but it is also the most refined with a range of efficient TSI petrol and TDI diesel engines, the majority of which are designated BlueMotion Technology models and fitted with Stop/Start and battery regeneration systems to enhance economy and lower emissions.

A choice of four trim levels is available: S, SE, SEL and Executive. All feature seven seats as standard except for Executive which has six individual seats with armrests and 'Vienna' leather as standard.

The Sharan also features a new EasyFold seating concept. This allows the individual seats of the second and third rows to be stowed in the vehicle floor with an easy-to-use folding mechanism. Like the front seats, the second row rear seats also adjust longitudinally and over backrest angles of up to 20 degrees. The third row of seats can be easily accessed through an innovative folding mechanism fitted to the middle row of seats to allow them to be tilted forward with one hand. When in five-seat configuration the load space measures 1,339 litres, rising to 2,430 litres with all seven seats folded.

Standard kit including ABS with HBA (Hydraulic Brake Assist) and ESP (Electronic Stabilisation Programme), an eight-speaker DAB digital radio, 2Zone electronic climate control and an iPod interface.

The Sharan can be specified with Adaptive Chassis Control (ACC) for the first time, allowing the driver to select from three damper settings – Comfort, Normal and Sport.

Also included as an option is the second generation park assist system that allows the new Sharan to self-park in end-on as well as parallel spaces. Deliveries start next month.

Fuel rises prove more effective than speed cams

A NEW survey by RoadPilot has found that nearly half of UK motorists claim to have reduced their average speed in the past 12 months, with concerns over rising fuel costs – rather than the presence of speed cameras and other traffic enforcement measures – cited as the main reason for the change.

The British firm, which is Europe's leading provider of GPS speed camera location data, identified that a desire to cut fuel costs was the main reason that 33 per cent of those questioned have reduced their speed, compared to just 13 per cent who cited traffic enforcement. Other factors listed include greater road congestion (22 per cent) and environmental concerns (10 per cent).

The study also identified that 40 per cent of drivers are monitoring their vehicle's fuel consumption more closely than they did a year ago. In addition, the vast majority (86 per cent) of motorists said that fuel efficiency and emissions were quite or very important when buying a car.

"The cost of filling up seems to be a more effective deterrent to speeding for most drivers than the possible risk of incurring a speeding fine," commented James Flynn OBE, CEO of RoadPilot. "Driving remains an essential part of life for many people in the UK, but clearly motorists are feeling the pinch at present and are doing whatever they can to reduce their monthly outgoings.

"It appears that motorists are putting their own driving techniques under greater scrutiny than ever before, and as a result their average speeds have started to come down, which can only benefit road safety.

"Speed camera detection systems such as RoadPilot Mobile help motorists to be more aware of local speed limits via audio and visual alerts. Being better prepared for changes to speed limits can help drivers to maintain a more steady speed and in so doing, improve their fuel economy," Flynn concludes.

RoadPilot Mobile is a GPS speed camera alert application for smartphones, providing access to the firm's comprehensive database of speed camera locations across the UK, Europe and numerous other countries around the globe. The database can also be accessed through a 'combined speed camera and traffic alert' application for the Nokia Maps 3.0 satellite navigation software.

Volkswagen's new Passat – from £18,470

PRICES for the seventh generation Volkswagen Passat have been revealed and customers can order one now. The new car will cost from £18,470 for the saloon and £19,745 for the Estate.

Unveiled at the Paris Motor Show last month, every panel and glass surface apart from the roof is new and the new model adopts the latest technologies and efficiency measures to make it among the most advanced and economical cars in its class.

Every diesel engine is now badged as a BlueMotion Technology product and is equipped with battery regeneration and Stop/Start systems as standard. The result is that the entry-level 1.6-litre TDI 102bhp is capable of exceeding the economy of the outgoing BlueMotion model with a combined economy of 65.7mpg and CO2 emissions of 114g/km. In turn, the new BlueMotion model, due to go on sale in early 2011, will return 68.8mpg and emit 109g/km of CO2.

Upgraded common-rail diesel engines and gearboxes also feature, with a six-speed manual gearbox being fitted to the 1.6-litre TDI 102bhp engine for the first time.

Three trim levels will be available: S, SE and Sport. Additional equipment added to the new Passat over the outgoing model includes an iPod interface and leather multifunction steering wheel for the S model. The SE trim level gains an eight-speaker digital radio, Bluetooth connectivity and the new driver fatigue detection system; while at the top of the range the new Sport model gains the RNS 315 touchscreen satnav.

All Passats will be fitted with six airbags, ABS (anti-lock braking system), ESP (Electronic Stabilisation Programme) and WOKS (whiplash-optimised head restraints) as standard.

In addition, the new Passat promises to be the quietest and most refined iteration yet. Thicker glass is fitted to the side windows while the windscreen features a thin plastic film sandwiched between two layers of the glass to help reduce noise transmission.

The best-selling version of the new Passat is forecast to be the SE 2.0-litre TDI 136bhp model; the Estate is expected to out-sell the saloon for the first time.

Pricing for the new Passat saloon and Estate follows – a full list of specifications can be found at www.volkswagen.co.uk.

You will be working for LSNMedia, which, as part of Iliffe News and Media, is one of the most dynamic newspaper publishers in the country.

In return the right candidate can expect 25 days holiday per annum, regular training and contributory pension and healthcare (after qualifying period).

Online Sales Co-ordinator

Salary circa £16k-£19k basic with realistic bonus of £4-£6k p/a.

LSN Media is a successful and progressive publisher of newspapers, magazines and associated websites across Beds, Bucks and Northants and is part of Iliffe News & Media Ltd.

We're currently going through an exciting period of growth, especially with our websites, and are now looking for an Online Sales Co-ordinator to fulfil two key roles within our online team. The first is to help maintain, develop and grow content on our sites to help continuously build traffic, and the second is to drive sales of online advertising from existing and new advertisers across our group.

The successful candidate will have a real interest in online publishing and media and will be keen to build an online sales career going forward. Technical knowledge is not necessary but you will need to have the confidence, drive and enthusiasm to sell online advertising solutions to local clients both face to face and by telephone on a daily basis. You will also be expected to work very closely with editors and our sales teams across four local offices to help increase local advertisers spend on our websites, and to explain the benefits to them of combined advertising solutions across print and online.

You'll need to be organised and very self motivated and able to communicate with customers both internally and externally at all levels. Sales experience would be an advantage but is not necessary. This is a great opportunity for an ambitious and professional sales person to join us at a time of real growth and development, and the opportunities for further career advancement within the business are exceptional.

To apply please send a letter of application explaining why you think you fit the bill along with your current CV to;
Alison Lloyd, LSN Media Ltd, 22 Mill Street, Bedford. MK40 3HD or email alison.lloyd@lsnmedia.co.uk.

Your CV

When you send your CV off to a potential employer, remember that you won't be the only one. Hundreds of other people could be applying for the job as well.

So what are you going to do to make you stand out from the crowd? Why should an employer take a chance on you instead of someone else?

Your CV is your first real chance to sell yourself to a potential employer. Most employers will scan through a CV in about 30 seconds so you need to grab their attention from the start - and make them want to invite you for an interview.

There are five main areas to consider when writing your CV:

- Make sure your CV looks the part. Your CV should look clean and tidy - don't scrawl it out on a piece of A4 paper. If you haven't got access to a PC or printer, ask a friend or use your local library. Use a good quality paper and steer clear of fancy borders and front covers.
- Watch out for silly spelling and grammar mistakes. They make you look lazy and show employers that you don't really care. It's not difficult to do a spell check on your PC and if you're really stuck then don't just guess, reach for a dictionary. Get a friend to read through your CV for you - a second opinion is always useful.
- Make sure your CV is well organised. When you list your previous jobs, make sure the dates are correct and try not to leave any gaps. If you took time out to go travelling then say so - employers won't mark you down just because you've tried something new.
- Don't waffle. Remember that employers don't have time to read every word of your CV. Long paragraphs and sentences put people off, so try bullet-points to break up text. Make sure your CV is no longer than two pages long - employers don't want your life history, they just want to see that you've got what it takes to do the job.
- Don't list any failures. Employers have enough trouble finding someone who is right for the job - they don't need help finding reasons not to employ you. If you have to include a mistake from your past, make sure you show the employer that you learnt something from the experience.

Keep it simple

Personal details

Start off with your full name, address, date of birth, home and mobile phone numbers, email address and nationality. If you are offered an interview, the employer will want to get hold of you so give him as many options as possible.

Summary/professional profile

This is the No1 area for selling yourself. Set out your main skills and personal qualities but keep it interesting and tight - one paragraph should do to cover everything.

Education and qualifications

List your qualifications and education history, with the most recent first. You don't need to list the grades for each exam you have passed unless they were exceptional results - simply listing the number and type of exams you've passed is fine. Also, list any relevant professional organisations you belong to and training courses you have been on.

Work experience

Start with your most recent position and work backwards, giving addresses along with start and finish dates. Set out your main responsibilities, duties and most importantly achievements, along with any skills you picked up or improvements you made while you were there. This is a really important section in your CV so make it count - but don't waffle.

If you have not had a full-time job before, detail any part-time jobs you may have held or any placement you have been on.

Other skills

Set out any computer skills you may have and the software you are most familiar with. Can you type, do shorthand or speak a foreign language fluently? If you have a driving licence, let the employer know. If it's clean, tell them.

Interests & hobbies

Briefly list what you get up to in your spare time. Put down any positions you hold in clubs or associations, along with any responsibilities and achievements.

References

Make sure you have at least two people (including one from your previous or current job) who will tell an employer what a thoroughly nice person you are and what a potential asset to the company you would be.

If you want to list them now make sure you include their name, job title, postal & e-mail address and contact phone numbers. Alternatively, just put "Available on request" so the employer knows to follow up references at a later date.

Add a covering letter

The main aim of a covering letter is to encourage an employer to give you a chance. You want them to read your CV, so sell it to them. You should always enclose a covering letter when applying for a job - most employers won't consider you unless you do.

A covering letter should let the employer know why you are interested in the job and why you think you can do it.

The hints and tips below should point you in the right direction:

- Keep it simple. A covering letter should be short and to the point - no more than six paragraphs.
- Mention the job. If you are replying to an advert, mention what the job is and where you saw it. The company may be advertising for other positions and it may not be clear which job you are applying for.
- Sell yourself. Explain why you are the perfect candidate for the job. Show off your strengths and experience. Refer to your CV - if it goes missing then at least an employer will know that you've sent it.
- Check it for mistakes. A silly spelling mistake in a covering letter is likely to cost you your chance of getting an interview. Also, make sure it is addressed to the right person in the right department.

A covering letter can be just as important as a CV in getting you an interview. It's your first point of contact with your potential employer - so make it count.

>> Football: Youth round-up

Histon Hornets 0 Haverhill Rovers 2
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

HAVERHILL Rovers' sporadic season continued with a confidence-boosting victory at Histon.

They had to weather a certain amount of early pressure but, from one of several Hornets' corners, Rovers broke quickly and Keegan Ayre put them one-up with a smart finish.

The visitors stepped up a gear in the second half but did not score the second goal until 15 minutes from time, when another fast break put Danny Knight in.

That proved to be a timely goal as only a stunning goal-line clearance from Jordan Cowdrey prevented the home side from scoring.

West Wrattling 4 Sawston Utd 0
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-15A

WRATTING came out top in a tight and robust affair to continue a sound start to the season which was reflected by the invitation to attend Norwich City Academy's for a series of short games, in front of the Canaries' coaching staff, against a team from London and three others from the eastern counties.

The clean sheet against Sawston was testimony to another excellent performance from the back four of Jack Child, Sam Clayton, Jamie Boulton and Matt Wilson. Kieran O'Neill ended the stalemate by firing the opening goal from six yards and James Percy rammed home the second.

They had several chances to put the game to bed before half time, but had to wait until Tom Pinker struck twice in the later stages to seal the points.

Kedington 11 Milton 1
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

TY Alleyne led Kedington's goal spree with five goals as they put Milton to the sword. Alleyne broke the deadlock midway through the first half although the scoring honours in the opening period went to Jamie Lingard, who hit a hat-trick. Milton's highlight was a penalty, converted in the opening minutes of the second half, but there was never any sniff of a comeback. Jason Moore (2) and Conor Rankin completed the scoring.

Newmarket 3 Thurlow 2
Cambs Mini League, under-10B

THURLOW were disappointed not to get a draw as they tried to avenge an earlier defeat by Newmarket. They started well and were rewarded when Joe Morley chased down what appeared a lost cause and made the most of a mistake by the keeper. However, they paid the price for not converting any of their several chances and were pegged back when they were caught on the break. Thurlow retook the lead with an own goal from Finley Plant's corner, but an own goal at the other end and a winner against the run of play left Thurlow empty-handed.

Haverhill 19 Walpole Warriors 0
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-12C

JAYDEN Bayford scored a hat-trick as Rovers racked up the goals. Having set a fierce tempo from the start, they were 5-0 ahead at the break thanks to Jack Hundson, John Burrell (2), Bayford and Jordan Hopkins – although three smart saves by the Warriors' keeper prevented Corey Slater getting on the scoresheet. Two more for Bayford and further strikes from Billy Jarvis and Billy Campbell sealed a comfortable win.

Cambridge Celts 3 Haverhill Rov 2
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13A

ROVERS were punished again for not taking their chances when Celts took the points with a mishit cross that somehow ended in the net.

The visitors had the better of the first half but only had Will Bailey's goal to show for their efforts in a period played at a fast pace.

Celts equalised with a scrappy goal early in the first half and then took the lead with a header. However, Jack Trowbridge quickly equalised only for Celts to grab the fluke winner.

Thurlow 3 Needingworth 2
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-14C

THURLOW were given a scare by Needingworth, who did not play as if they had not picked up any points so far this season.

They illustrated they would be hard to beat when their keeper made a brilliant save from Ashley Botten in the opening minutes. Eventually the pressure paid off when, from a corner, defender Jason Heffron scored his second goal of the season.

The visitors equalised midway through the half but Thurlow got their noses in front with two identical goals from Callum Williamson.

However, a goal on the break made sure the visitors kept the home side's defence on their toes.

Littleport Tn 5 West Wrattling 6
Cambridge and District Colts League, under-13C

WEST Wrattling had to survive a late flurry from the home side before clinching victory in an 11-goal thriller. They also had to overcome conceding an early goal, but once Jesse Luff and Ben Eames cracked excellent goals, Wrattling never relinquished the lead. Littleport levelled but Keaton Dial made it 3-2 at the break although within a minute of the restart it was 4-3 with Ellis Wiffen putting Wrattling further ahead before the home side pulled a goal back within seconds. Scott Bishop and Jake Murphy made it 6-3 before Littleport's late revival.

>> Rugby Union: Youth round-up

Haverhill 19 Stowmarket 17
Under-16

HAVERHILL held on to win in a nail-biting climax.

The visitors scored a last-gasp try and needed the points from a successful conversion to draw level.

However, the kick was missed, leaving Haverhill coach Peter Lester to observe that all the side needed to do was tidy up their work around the breakdown to become a formidable side.

UNDER-11
A DEPLETED Haverhill side

earned their first win of the season in the double-header against Stowmarket. They won the opening match 21-10 thanks to two tries from Jordan Newnham and one from Kit Browne with Brandon McKay converting all three. However, they made a slow start to the second game, and shipped two early tries.

This affected their confidence and their sole reply was a clever try from Oliver Cooper which McKay converted.

UNDER-SEVEN

THE ever-improving side recorded their first win of the season when Ben Warren and Ben McKay scored their tries in 25-10 and 30-15 victories, with Kai Rintoul and Aidan Denty strong defensively.

UNDER-EIGHT

WITH only six players making the trip to Stowmarket, Haverhill expected a challenging day. However, they won the first match 35-15, coming from behind to ease home with tries from Hayden Lawrence (4), Marshall McKay (2), Craig Martin-Gowing, Luke Wheeler and Charlie Harvey. The second game

Haverhill relief after late drama was a bit closer, Oscar Harwood deserving his first try of the season to set the side up for a 45-25 win.

Lawrence and McKay both scored two apiece before Martin-Gowing returned a Stowmarket knock-on the length of the pitch for his second of the day. Hard-working Harvey added two more before Wheeler rounded off victory.

Haverhill fall short in their last-gasp bid

Haverhill 14 Ely 18

Greene King IPA Eastern Counties League
JON Hunt scored the all-important try as Ely secured a narrow 18-14 win over Haverhill in Division One.

Haverhill started well but on six minutes were penalised for holding on to the ball at the breakdown, and Ben Forteath slotted Ely's three points.

The visitors then seized on a knock-on for Joel-Scott Paul to score under the posts, and Forteath converted.

After the break, Ely cleared a kick to halfway, but Haverhill full-back Mike Woods collected at full speed and powered his way through the visitors' defence to touch down, and Jake Plumridge added the extras.

From the kick-off, Haverhill were penalised and Forteath kicked a penalty to give Ely a six-point lead, and they soon turned defence into attack, with Hunt going over to make it 18-7.

With six minutes remaining, Ely persistently offended on their own line, and Haverhill were awarded a penalty try, which Plumridge converted.

However, they were left just four points adrift and Ely skipper Karl Hayler said: "I believe they call it winning ugly."

Charge: Haverhill's Paul Bergin tries to punch a hole in the Ely line.

That's a cruel cut

Great Yarmouth 2 Haverhill Rov 2

Ridgions League, Premier Division
CRAIG Cutts had a last-minute goal disallowed, but Rovers still clinched a point after coming from 2-0 down on Saturday.

After a goalless first half, the hosts took the lead from a corner in the 65th minute, although Rovers manager Peter Betts felt the scorer had fouled a defender in the process. And Betts also felt Yarmouth's second three minutes later was offside.

But Rovers went for broke in the last 15 minutes, switching to a 3-4-3 formation, and Matt Clarke reduced the deficit with a scrappy goal from inside the six-yard box.

Dalton O'Brien equalised with a shot on the turn from 12 yards, before Cutts' thought he had scored the winner, only for an offside decision to rule out his effort.

Betts said: "We're pleased to have come back from two down, and it's another game unbeaten. But we're disappointed by the decision at the end as we felt it wasn't offside."

Haverhill Rov 3 Whittlesey Utd 0

Camb Invitation Cup, preliminary round
SUBSTITUTE Callum Harrison sealed a comfortable 3-0 victory on Tuesday.

He found the net with a powerful drive 10 minutes into the second half after linking with fellow replacement Matt Clarke.

Peter Betts' side were 2-0 up at half time thanks to a third-minute own goal by the visiting goalkeeper, who punched Jack Higgs' corner into the net, and Dan Emmanuel's tap-in from Higgs' accurate cross.

■ Haverhill are at home to Debenham in the league on Saturday.
